N.B.—Besides the entire Article of Fines and Forfeitures, as stated in the foregoing Accounts, about One Third Part of the Net Produce of the present Duties on Beer and Ale, arising from the original Rates called Hereditary and Temporary Excise, has generally been considered and acted upon by the Barons of Exchequer as applicable to His Majesty's Hereditary Revenue; but no separate State of the Gross and Net Produce of these Rates appears to have been kept, at least since about the Year 1736, when the Cash arising from the various Rates on the several Species of Beer and Ale, &c. began to be blended and accounted for as at present under one general Title.

The Charges of Management, on the Amount of the Aid and Contribution Tax, cannot be ascertained at present, but it is presumed they will not exceed 6d. in the Pound.

The Sum £. 1,437,025. 10s. 5½d. is exclusive of the Sums paid into the Bank to cover Assessed Taxes, and the Charges of Collection at 6d. in the Pound would amount to £. 35,925. 12s. 9d. as stated in the General Abstract.

Note.—The Charges of Management and Net-Payments into the Exchequer, upon these Taxes, as stated in the General Abstract, differ from the Sums stated in the above Account; the Amount of the Commutation Duty, viz. £. 406,409. 10s. —½d. is deducted from this Account and carried to the Account of the Customs and Excise, and stated under their proper Heads; consequently a proportionate Sum is deducted also from the Charges of Management in this Account, and added to the Management of the Customs and Excise respectively.

Note. The Sums actually received at the Exchequer on account of the Afflicted Taxes of Scotland, within the Year, amount to £. 119,480. 14s. 7d. exclusive of the £. 14,000 remitted by the Executors of the Honourable Keith Stewart. The Difference between this Sum of £. 119,000, and the above Sum of £. 104,000, stated to be the Amount of the Remittances made by the Receiver General, arises from Bills having been remitted in the Year 1797, and consequently charged in the Remittances of that Year, but which not becoming due until the Year 1798, were therefore included in the Exchequer Receipt of the latter Year.

Deputy Receiver of the 1s. Duty.

Note.—Although in the above Account no Payments are stated to be made into the Exchequer on Account of this Revenue within the Year ending the 5th January 1799, yet it appears by the Accounts of the Auditors of the Exchequer, that the Sum of £. 31,800 was paid into the Exchequer by the Receiver in that Year, and this Sum consequently making a Part of the Balance in the Receiver's Hands on the 5th January 1798, it is therefore in the General Abstract stated as a Part of the Balance due by him at the Commencement of the Year.

N. B.—The above is the only Case in the Revenue, wherein a Balance is due, both at the Commencement and Termination of the Year, to the Accountant; and as the Sums are trifling, the one being only 9s. 5½d. and the other 13s. 4½d. it was thought proper, in order to prevent an Increase of Columns in the General Abstract, to subtract the 9s. 5½d. from the Gross Receipt, and the 13s. 4½d. from the Payments into the Exchequer.

Note.—As the Act of last Session of Parliament, imposing certain Duties on the declared Value on Goods Imported and exported, commonly called the Convoy Act, only commenced on the 5th of July 1798, the Inspector General has not the Means of giving the declared Value of the British Produce and Manufactures exported in the Year ending the 5th January 1799; but he thinks it proper to state, that in as far as the Accounts of the Half Year ending the 5th January last, may be considered as a Criterion, it appears that the DECLARED VALUE on which a Duty is paid exceeds the Rate of VALUE IN THE INSPECTOR GENERAL'S BOOKS about 71 per Cent. on the Whole of the British Manufactures exported.

Note.—As the Account of the Imports from the East Indies and China for last Year cannot be obtained sooner than the Middle of July ensuing, the Inspector General has therefore distinguished the Importations by the East India Company; and in order that he may be enabled to exhibit in the above Account the comparative State of the Importations from Countries, other than India and China, in the last Year, with those of the Eleven preceding Years.

Inspector General's Office,
Custom House, March 1st, 1799.

3d May 1799.

J. Franklin, Pro Controller General.

The foregoing Sums are the Current Balances due from the respective present Collectors on the 5th January 1797, being the latest Period to which the Accounts have been finally adjusted. When the Accounts for the Years 1797 and 1798 shall be settled, it will appear that all these Balances have been altered, and others incurred in lieu thereof. The Amount of Balances due on the 5th January 1799, cannot yet be ascertained; but whatever such Amount may be, there is no Reason to suppose that any Part thereof will be lost to the Crown.

J. Franklin, Pro Controller General.
