Committee appointed to consider of the Charge upon

HIS MAJESTY'S Civil List Revenue.

Ordered to be printed 29th March 1804.

THE COMMITTEE appointed to consider of the CHARGE upon HIS MAJESTY'S CIVIL LIST REVENUE; and who were directed to report the same, together with their Opinion, to the House; and to whom the several Accounts presented to the House by Mr. Chancellor of the Exchequer, by HIS MAJESTY'S Command, on the Twelfth Day of this Instant March, have been referred;—HAVE proceeded in the Examination of the several Matters referred to them; and have agreed upon the following REPORT:

THE Nature of the Charge upon His Majesty's Civil List Revenue, the Arrangement by which it is distributed into several Classes, and the Comparison of the Estimate for each, as laid before Parliament in the Year 1786, with the Actual Charge in every subsequent Year, have been already so fully stated in the Reports of the Select Committees appointed to consider this Subject, in the Two last Years, that Your Committee conceive it will only be necessary for them to incorporate the Accounts of the last Year with those of the preceding, in the Tables already prepared; in order to enable the House to appreciate the Causes of the Excess which has led to an Annual Accumulation of Debt; after adverting to such Items in the Accounts now laid before the House as appear to deserve particular Notice; and subjoining, as they are required to do, their Opinion upon the Whole.

They have accordingly stated in the Appendix to their Report,—

1. An Account of the Charge of the Civil List as estimated in 1786, and the Charge of the same in the Year ending January 5th, 1803, with the Increase and Decrease thereof; which which it is thought fit to exhibit again in the Form in which it is presented to Parliament in the present Year; as being now prepared from actual instead of, in some Instances, from estimated Charges, it affords a more accurate Statement than that which was presented in the last Year, and printed in the Report of that Committee.

Appendix
(B.)

2. A similar Account, made up to the 5th January last.

Appendixes
(C.) (D.) (E.)

3. Comparative Account of the Particulars of Charge in each Class and in each Year, from 1786 to the present, and as then estimated; that of the Year 1802 being corrected from the Account, Appendix (A.)

Appendix
(N.)

4. An Abstract of the General Amount of Charge in each Year, from the Year 1786 to the present; compared in like Manner with the Estimate then made, as applicable to each.

Appendix
(O.)

5. An Account of the Debt of His Majesty's Civil List on 5th January last, as laid before the House by His Majesty's Command.

Appendix
(P.)

6. An Account of the Payments which had been made on 5th January 1804, in Discharge of the Debt of the Civil List on the 5th January 1802; shewing the Excess or Diminution of the Charges paid, as compared with the Estimate of the Debt laid before Parliament.

Appendix

7. An Account of the Manner in which the Debt has arisen, from 5th January 1802 to the 5th January 1804; and the Actual Amount of the Deficiency, after taking Credit for the Auxiliary Funds granted by Parliament.

FROM an Examination of these Documents, it will appear, that, as has been noticed in the preceding Reports, the Excess of Expenditure beyond the Estimate is to be found, almost exclusively, in the THIRD and FOURTH CLASSES, and the Head of OCCASIONAL PAYMENTS.

The

The first of these comprizes the regular Establishment of the whole Diplomatic Body, the Charge of which for the Year 1802, will be found to exceed the Estimate of 1786, by the Sum of £. 19,045. 14. 2 $\frac{1}{2}$ ; and that for the Year 1803, by the Sum of £. 36,084. 3. 10 $\frac{1}{2}$ .

It was observed in the Report of last Year, that "the Charge of this Class, had always, during the Years of Peace, in some Degree exceeded the Estimate; that the Increase had been progressive, being in the first Year above £. 4,000, amounting in 1790 to near £. 17,000, and in 1792, the Year immediately preceding the late War, to £. 27,000; that the Increase was truly stated in the Report of 1802, to have arisen partly from some Addition to the Allowances of many of the Ambassadors upon the usual Establishment, but principally from the occasional Appointments of Ministers Plenipotentiary, Envoys Extraordinary, Chargé des Affaires, and Secretaries of Legation; for most of whom, as being only temporary, no Provision was professedly made in the Estimates of 1786." And it was also observed, "That the rising Importance of America since that Year, had also considerably increased the Charge both in the Diplomatic and Consulate Parts of that Establishment, of which only the Appointment of Consul General was included in that Estimate."

"That in consequence of the late Peace, which occasioned the Re-appointment of Ministers to France, Spain, and Holland, the Charge in 1802 had risen to the Amount stated; but, that as several of the most considerable of these Items were taken only for broken Parts of the Year, and as it might be found necessary hereafter to revive the Diplomatic Relations of this Country, in some Form or other, with several of those Powers with whom they had been discontinued, there seemed no Reason to expect, that, if the Rates of Allowances should continue nearly as in the Account of 1802, the Charge of that Class, on a permanent Peace Establishment, could be taken at a lower Scale, if so low as it actually reached previous to the

In Truth, the Appointment of Ministers, in consequence of the Peace having taken place during the course of that Year, and their Missions having continued through a great Part of 1803, and that to the Court of Spain through the Whole; while on the other Hand, the Re-commencement of the War may have occasioned some new Appointments or increased Allowances to those before existing, neither Year can be considered entirely on the Footing either of a Peace or War Establishment; and it may be thought therefore, that the fairest Mode of obtaining a proper Result, would be by combining the Charges of the two last Years, and taking the Average of the Whole, which would make the Annual Charge £. 98,416; being little more than £. 500 above the Charge in 1792, and consequently exceeding the Estimate in about that Amount beyond the £. 27,000 calculated upon in the Report of last Year.

The Charge of the FOURTH CLASS, comprizing, “ the Approved Bills of His Majesty’s Tradesmen, Artificers, and Labourers, for any Articles supplied or Work done for His Majesty’s Service,” which, from its Magnitude and general Excess beyond the Estimate, particularly attracted the Notice of the former Committees, does not, in the Year under Consideration, appear to require much additional Observation: The Charge indeed of the Lord Chamberlain’s Department, which has usually the most exceeded the Estimate, has in the last Year been reduced above £. 19,000 below that of the preceding; while that of the other Branches of the Household, has either varied little or has likewise been reduced, so as on the Whole to have amounted to less than it has done in any Year since 1799.

In the other Subdivision of this Class, the Article of PRINTING has exceeded that of the preceding Year by above £. 7,000; still leaving the Charge of the Whole Class about £. 14,000 below the Amount of the preceding Year.

The

The Charge under the Head of OCCASIONAL PAYMENTS, which is the Third Object to which it was proposed to draw the Attention of the House, will be found to have exceeded that of the preceding Year by the Sum of £. 52,896, though not to have reached the Amount of that of 1801.

The principle Articles in which this Excess has arisen, will appear to be,

Deficiency of Treasury Fees;—Sheriffs Conviction of Felons, and Overpayments on their Accounts, amounting together to an Excess of above £. 9,000;—Law Charges £. 15,000;—Extra-Extraordinaries to Ministers at Foreign Courts, including Re-imbursments for Expences incurred and Losses sustained in His Majesty’s Service Abroad, above £. 14,000;—Messengers Bills in the Departments of the Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs and the War Department, £. 7,000; and Contingencies in the same, £. 8,000. Some Diminution of Expence appears to have taken place, but not in any Item of necessary and constant Charges.

The whole Amount of the Charge of the Civil List in the last Year appears to have been £. 1,148,851, exceeding that of the preceding Year by £. 48,691; the principle Articles of which have been adverted to in the preceding Remarks on the Classes, in which the Excess has arisen, and which Difference would have been still greater, but for the Diminution of Expence in some of the other Classes, which it has not been thought necessary particularly to Notice. The Result of the Whole gives an Excess above the Estimate of 1786, of £. 251,451.

This Deficiency naturally leads Your Committee to the Consideration of the next Object of Enquiry, the DEBT which has accrued since the 5th January 1802; the Particulars of which, as it now stands, are detailed in the Account in the Appendix; and the Occasion of which will be found in the comparative Statement of Charge of each Class for the last Eighteen Years.

Appendix (O.)

On this Part of the Subject in general, Your Committee is led to observe, that from the Statement laid before Parliament in the Report of the Year 1802, the Inadequacy of the Funds originally destined for the Charge of the Civil List Expenditure, to the then existing and probable future Demands of that Service, must have been apparent, and may be considered as having been recognized by the Vote of the House for defraying the Arrears of Debt incurred up to that Period. This Deficiency being established, and no Provision having since been made by Parliament for increasing the Funds, or diminishing the Charge, it is obvious that some Accumulation of Debt must have been expected: As the Particulars which have given rise to the present Debt are now submitted to the Consideration of the House, who will thus be enabled to form their own Judgment on the Result, it may be unnecessary minutely to examine what ground of Expectation existed when the former Debt was discharged, as to the probable future Deficiency in any given Period; but it will be found on referring to the Statement inserted in the Report of 1802, that the Increase of Charge above the Estimate, as stated for the preceding Year (adding the Sums then due) amounted to £. 230,031; and it will appear that the Average Excess of the Two last Years, 1802 and 1803, amounts to £. 227,105 per Annum, a Sum not much differing from the former, though it certainly cannot be assumed that the Amount of Charge for 1801 increased, as it was by the Payment of Sums, to the Amount of £. 51,679, which might not, in the ordinary Course, have been included in it, and exceeding, as it did, considerably beyond that Amount, the Charge of the preceding Year was necessarily to be taken as the Criterion for future Years.

On the Whole, Your Committee, concurring as they do in the Suggestions made by the Committee of last Year, and confirmed by subsequent Experience in the Propriety of suggesting to Parliament the Adoption of such Measures as may be adequate to provide for the probable future Demands of this Establishment, beg leave to adopt the Observations, with which they concluded their Report:

“ On

“ On a Consideration of the Result of the Whole, Your Committee are of Opinion, that the Revenue applicable to the Charge of the Civil List Expenditure, is become inadequate to the various Services which, in the Estimate of 1786, it was calculated to meet. That, as this Deficiency may obviously be accounted for by the Advance of Price which has taken place since that Period, on all Articles of Expenditure in which the Establishment of the Household is concerned, and in the other Branches of a more public Nature, by necessary Additions to various Articles of Charge, there appears no Ground to expect that the same Establishment, intended to be provided for by the Estimate in 1786, can be supported in future without some considerable additional Provision; which, Your Committee beg leave to suggest, might be most conveniently made in the following Mode: They are of Opinion, that it would be expedient, in the first Place, that a new Estimate, more adapted to present Circumstances, should now be prepared and laid before Parliament; that if this was properly formed on such Part of the FOURTH CLASS as respects the Household, it might be reasonably expected that the future Charge would be provided for, so as to prevent any Debt arising upon this Head.

“ They think, it might be proper, however, that further Regulations should be adopted, with respect to the Charges comprized in the Second Subdivision of that Class, as well as in the Third Class, and the Occasional Payments, which latter, from the contingent Nature of the various Particulars included in it, it is less easy to provide for by previous Estimate. As all these are, in most of the Articles, connected with the general Expenditure of the Country, though, by His Majesty's Prerogative, more immediately under His Controul, they are of Opinion, that it might be expedient that they should be submitted Annually to the Inspection of Parliament; who would thus be enabled to observe, whether any Excess above the corrected Estimate had taken place; to examine the Causes and provide the Remedy, either by controuling the Expence or taking “ Measures for its Discharge. Considering the extreme Uncertainty of many of these Charges, as well as the Necessity of discharging them by Ready Money Payments, so as not to interfere with the Order intended to be established as to the Payment of the other Classes, they wish further to submit to the Wisdom of the House, how far it might be prudent to provide Annually, by a previous Vote, such a Sum as might ensure these Services being provided for as they arise, subject to an Account of Particulars being laid before Parliament in each succeeding Session, and liable to their Controul, as in other Cases of the Disposition of Public Money.”
